ABOUT US

Ars Civilis is a non-profit Foundation created in the year 2009 with a national and international scope. We cooperate and establish relationships with other institutions, associations and companies of national or international significance. We promote and support projects with a systemic view, because we understand that we live in an interactive world, where everything is interrelated. We believe that culture, heritage and innovation are essential levers for a constant sustainable development. Therefore, our projects aspire to achieve real results and contribute to invigorate the economic and social system.

People and society are the main beneficiaries of our actions, being our priority to combine evolution and modernisation with the preservation of memory and the enhancement of historical resources. Working together and collaborating with who share these same principles is one of the central concepts that rule our actions.
