

13th IWA Specialized Conference on Small Water and Wastewater Systems

5th IWA Specialized Conference on Resources-Oriented Sanitation

Call for Papers

14-16 SEPTEMBER 2016
ATHENS, GREECE

Invitation

The Sanitary Engineering Laboratory (www.eyt.gr) of the National Technical University of Athens (www.ntua.gr) together with the Hellenic Water Association (www.hwa.gr) are delighted to host the 13th IWA Specialized Conference on Small Water and Wastewater Systems (SWWS) together with the 5th IWA Specialized Conference on Resources-Oriented Sanitation (ROS).

The event is a continuation of the previous successful Conferences of the 10th SWWS and 3rd ROS (Venice, Italy), the 11th SWWS (Harbin, China) and the 12th SWWS and 4th ROS (Muscat, Oman). The Conference will bring together researchers, engineers, water practitioners from academia, industry, water utilities, public authorities and administration to exchange know how and experiences. Within the Conference knowledge and expertise will be disseminated on innovative systems, technologies and processes which are/can be applied at small and decentralized regions for the management of water and wastewater. The whole water supply chain is considered from water abstraction to treated wastewater disposal and reuse. Furthermore, resource oriented sanitation as a route to sustainable and ecologically sound sanitation will be discussed.

*On behalf of the Organizers
Andreas Andreadakis, Daniel Mamais,
Simos Malamis, Constantinos Noutsopoulos*

Location of the event

The Conference will take place in Athens. Athens is the largest city and capital of Greece. It is one of the world's oldest cities, with its recorded history spanning around 3,400 years. Classical Athens was a powerful city-state, a centre for the arts, learning and philosophy, home of Plato's Academy and Aristotle's Lyceum. Athens is a large cosmopolitan metropolis and central to the economic, industrial, maritime, political and cultural life in Greece. The urban area of Athens (Greater Athens and Greater Piraeus) has a population of approximately 4 million over an area of 412 km<sup>2</sup>.

Conference topics

- ▶ Small scale and decentralized water treatment and management systems
- ▶ Small scale and decentralized wastewater treatment and management systems
- ▶ Water reuse, recycle and conservation
- ▶ Sludge treatment and reuse
- ▶ Environmental policy and legislation
- ▶ Nutrient recovery/removal
- ▶ Decentralized wastewater collection systems
- ▶ Environmental microbiology and population dynamics
- ▶ On site systems
- ▶ Case studies of small water and wastewater treatment plants
- ▶ Anaerobic and aerobic treatment processes
- ▶ Resources-oriented sanitation systems
- ▶ Environmental and economic sustainability tools
- ▶ Fate and removal of micropollutants
- ▶ Historic evolution of small scale and decentralized water and wastewater management systems

Conference Chairs

Andreadakis Andreas	National Technical University of Athens, Greece
Mamais Daniel	National Technical University of Athens, Greece
Malamis Simos	National Technical University of Athens, Greece

Pantopoulou Elsa	National Technical University of Athens, Greece
Petroulias Nicholas	Hellenic Water Association, Greece

Publishing

Selected papers from the Conference Proceedings will be published in:

- ▶ Water Science & Technology
- ▶ Water Science & Technology: Water Supply
- ▶ Water Practice & Technology
- ▶ Desalination & Water Treatment

REGISTRATION FEES

Early bird (up to 30th of June)

IWA members	€ 400
Non IWA Members	€ 500
Students	€ 170
Low income country IWA member	€ 250
Low income country non IWA member	€ 300
Accompanying person	€ 50

After 30th of June

IWA members	€ 450
Non IWA Members	€ 550
Students	€ 200
Low income country IWA member	€ 300
Low income country non IWA member	€ 350
